Floods Peril Farm Areas In Indiana

Break In Old Levee Would Strike Many Agricultural Sites

By The Associated Press
The farming area near Oaktown, Ind., became the main center of activity along the flooded Wabash River today as the danger in upstream communities appeared easing.

National Guardsmen were sent by Gov. Harold W. Handley into the Oaktown area, about 40 miles south of Terre Haute, to strengthen an old levee. A break in the levee would flood thousands of acres of farm land.

Dry weather prevailed in the flood zones and also in wide areas throughout the country east of the Rockies. The country's wettest region was in the Pacific Coast.

Officials in the flood sections of Indiana, which forced some 1,700 families from their homes last week, said barring heavy rains, the worst of the overflows appeared ended.

However, Weather Bureau officials said it would be two weeks before the Wabash falls below flood stage at West Terre Haute. A temporary dike of sandbags held Sunday against another small rise in the swollen river. A huge ice jam remained near Delphi although thawing temperatures over the weekend dislodged some big chunks.

Cooler weather moved into two separate sections east of the Continental Divide. Temperatures dropped in most areas from eastern Texas and the Gulf Coast to the Ohio River and to all of the Atlantic Seaboard except Florida.

Biggest drops were in New England, where readings were below zero in northern sections.

Hall Removes Name From Primary List

A Democratic council - at - large candidate in Wellsville withdrew his nominating petition before the deadline Saturday, assuring three other candidates of the party's nominations at the May 5 primary.

Floyd D. Hall, 807 Buckeye Ave., city Civil Defense director, withdrew from the four-man race, leaving Robert E. Taggart, Roy L. Keister and Wilmer B. Ralston without opposition at the primary.

Hall was the only one of 217 candidates for offices in four cities and four villages to withdraw his petition. Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk of the County Election Board, said. His withdrawal leaves the same number of candidates - 108 - seeking offices on both the Republican and Democratic tickets in East Liverpool, Wellsville, Salem, East Palestine, Lisbon, Leetonia, Columbiana and Salineville.

No protests of any candidates were filed before the deadline Saturday, O'Hanlon said, clearing the way for the board to forward copy for ballots and poll books to the Dodge Publishing Co. of Salem and the Columbus Blank Book Co.

The board also must certify the official form of the ballot to Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, who has until Feb. 19 to act.

Ballots for servicemen overseas and civilians residing outside the United States must be available by March 6. The board will begin issuing ballots for civilian absentees outside the county and disabled voters on April 5.

Meanwhile, O'Hanlon issued a reminder that unregistered East Liverpool voters have until March 25 to qualify for the May 5 primaries.

Slogan For Chinese Communism:

'20 Years Crowded Into One Day..'

The Communist engineered changes in China are enormous, and so is the price paid in human terms. Dr. Sripati Chandrasekhar, noted scholar and director of India's institute for Population at Madras, recently returned from extensive travel behind the Bamboo Curtain. This is the first of five searching articles he has written of life in Communist China.

By Dr. Sripati Chandrasekhar
Copyright, 1959

By The Associated Press
I spent about six weeks in Communist China and traveled widely by plane, train, car and jeep, visiting a dozen major cities, a few villages, and four communes. I traveled as far as Harbin in old Manchuria in the north, Lanchow in the west, Shanghai in the east, and Canton and Shumchun in the south.

This huge nation has embarked upon an experiment which seeks to accomplish in one day what other nations normally take 20 years to do. This last sentence is in fact a Chinese Communist slogan: "Twenty years compressed into one day."

What is this communism they are after and how are they trying to achieve it? Is Chinese communism the same communism we know in the Soviet Union or is it different in any material particular?

Even the most casual traveler in Red China cannot but be struck with five aspects of the people and their economy. These are dress, the continuous din of broadcast propaganda, the country's extraordinary cleanliness, the tremendous labor effort, and the new position of women.

Take dress. Everyone, men and women of all ages, is dressed in blue trousers and buttoned-up coats with collars like the uniform of Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung. To a newcomer, men and women look almost alike, for all the women have taken to shoulder-length bobs.

It was explained to me that this new haircut, replacing the twin pigtail, saves time in washing and combing; and I must admit that this new hair style needs no attention. You run your comb through your hair and you are all set.

The second thing that no one can escape is the ubiquitous radio and the loudspeaker. This started when I boarded the train at Chumchun, the frontier station, taking me to Canton.

Even in a most backward and traditional village I saw a loudspeaker hidden in a treecop. You can escape the sun and the moon but you cannot escape the radio and the loudspeaker. And what does this radio pour out day and night? Everything that the government approves.

This is the most important medium for approved news — news of the nation's progress, industrial output, how to make a smelter, how to defeat the American "imperialists," how to be a good Communist, how to be neat, how to denounce the rightists, how to behave in a train, how to kill a rat or a sparrow, how to cook a sweet potato — and a thousand other things, interspersed with traditional Chinese opera with its deafening gongs and cymbals and martial and marching songs.

The reason behind the loudspeaker is really a simple one. In a far-flung nation of 650 million, where literacy is not widespread and where, consequently, the printed word is relatively ineffective, the only way to reach the citizen is via the radio in the re-laying loudspeaker which cannot be controlled and cannot even be turned off.

Allies Seek Move Ahead Of Deadline

Foreign Ministers Would Meet Under Proposed Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, Britain and France proposed to Russia today a wide-open Big Four conference on Germany, with East and West German advisers present.

The proposal was made in notes delivered in Moscow and scheduled for release in the Western capitals in a few hours.

West Germany sent a parallel note to Russia.

The Western powers turned down Russia's Jan. 10 proposal for a 28-nation conference to write a German peace treaty which would isolate and neutralize that now-divided country.

The Soviet peace pact project was called "stupid" by Secretary of State Dulles at a recent news conference. He said it would not work.

The call for a foreign ministers meeting was worked out in diplomatic conferences by the State Department and representatives here of the British, French and West German governments. It represents a counter-proposal to the Soviet peace conference proposition. At the same time it constitutes a serious bid to get negotiations started with the Russians on Germany.

It is aimed to get talks going ahead of Russia's deadline for a new Berlin crisis. The Russians have threatened to turn over control of East Germany—and the access routes to West Berlin—to the East German Communists in May.

Among officials here and in other Western capitals there is strong expectation that the Soviets will agree to a foreign ministers meeting of some kind, perhaps after bargaining as to time, place and participants. The Soviets may insist on including Poland and Czechoslovakia.

10 Are Killed When 2 Cars Ram In Texas

ALAMO, Tex. (AP) — Ten persons were killed on a rain-slick highway Sunday in a shattering automobile crash that jammed the speedometer on one vehicle at 80 m.p.h.

Four of the dead were children. The head-on collision occurred seven miles south of here in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, practically on the Texas-Mexico border.

Muddy rescue workers pried and tugged for more than an hour to remove nine bodies from one crumpled automobile.

Highway patrolman M. L. Dailey said the speedometer on the car of John T. Closer, a father of eight, was stuck at 80 miles per hour. Closer was traveling east and the other car west, Dailey said.

Details of the crash, which killed every occupant of the two cars, were meager. Tom Handy, a nearby resident, said he stepped onto his porch about the time they collided.

"It just happened so fast... all I know was that one car was going east and one west," Handy said.

Domingo Cantu, Handy's neighbor, said he "heard something go boom real loud."

Foreign Policy Harmony Vowed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats promised today a full measure of cooperation with the Eisenhower administration on foreign policies during Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' illness.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said after a conference with Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) of the Foreign Relations Committee that Democrats will do everything they can to help keep administration foreign policies intact.

"It will be the policy of the majority to advise and consult with the administration in every possible way in an attempt to help them develop a strong, positive foreign policy," Johnson said.

Sens. John Sparkman (D-Ala) and Mike Mansfield (D-Mont), other members of the committee, made similar pledges in separate interviews.

Dulles, in Walter Reed Army Hospital, starts this week a series of radiation treatments for cancer. The new malignancy, announced Saturday, was discovered after a hernia operation Dulles had undergone the day before.

The State Department said Sunday that Dulles' condition "continues satisfactory." During the day the secretary talked for about 15 minutes with Acting Secretary of State Christian Herter.

Herter, returning Saturday night from a South Carolina vacation, told newsmen he would accept appointment as secretary of state if

City Merchants Prepare For Dollar Day Thursday

Stores are preparing today for the first Dollar Day of 1959, which will be held Thursday under the sponsorship of the East Liverpool Merchants Association.

Shoppers from the tri-state area will find special values in hardware, furniture, jewelry, men's, women's and children's clothing, dry goods, appliances and other lines, merchants said.

Red on white window pennants will be distributed Tuesday for display by participating stores. A battery of telephone operators will make calls to rural area housewives Wednesday, reminding them of the sale.

Aiding in transportation for the shopping crowd, community bus companies will maintain service until 8:30 Thursday night as usual, merchants said.

Dollar Day always is one of the highlights on the East Liverpool merchandising calendar. The events are held each February and August.

The Dollar Day sales have been a tradition for approximately 38 years. A shortage of goods forced cancellation during World War II. The first Dollar Day was held in August 1917 and the response from shoppers prompted merchants to conduct two of the promotions yearly.

Extensive Study Due On Economic Problem

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate House Economic Committee plans to start an extensive study of the nation's economic problems.

The study will focus not only on inflation, but on full employment and growth.

Chairman Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill) said Sunday his group will start the study as soon as it completes its comments on President Eisenhower's economic report at the end of the month. It hopes to finish the inquiry and make a report by the end of 1959.

Rites Set Wednesday

Death Takes W. O. Bloor, Executive Of Ogilvie Co.

William O. Bloor, dean of East Liverpool merchants and a managing partner in the D. M. Ogilvie & Co. store, was found dead in bed about 5:30 a. m. Sunday at his home, 555 Henry Ave. He was 75.

Mr. Bloor was associated for more than 60 years with the Ogilvie concern, which he joined as a stockboy about 1897 at the age of 14. He took the position with D. M. Ogilvie, founder of the present concern, and it proved to be the only business connection he ever held.

Mr. Bloor had completed grade school when he took the stock boy position. Later, he studied at night at Ohio Valley Business College to round out his education.

Mr. Bloor was taken ill late Saturday morning and left the store to go to his home. He was found dead by his wife, Mrs. Mary McCann Bloor. Death apparently resulted from a heart ailment.

Throughout his business career, Mr. Bloor also was active in East Liverpool civic affairs. He was a charter member of the Chamber of Commerce, which he helped to organize in 1915 and 1916. A few years ago, the Chamber paid tribute to him as one of its few surviving charter members.

Mr. Bloor served as treasurer of the Chamber from 1936 to 1943 and was on the Board of Directors from 1933 to 1946 and from 1950 to 1952. He was elected in 1931 to the Board of Trustees of the Merchants Protective Association. In 1933, he became treasurer, a post he held until 1953. At the time of his death, he was a member of the board of

$500 Fine Provided

Action On 'Litterbug Bill' Awaited In West Virginia

CHARLESTON (AP) — A "litterbug bill" under which a motorist could be fined up to $500 for throwing trash from his car in West Virginia was up for passage in the House this afternoon.

It was one of 14 bills on passage stage in the House as the Legislature reconvened after the week-end recess.

The Senate had eight bills up for passage, including one to raise the ceiling on financing authority for a new building at Marshall College in Huntington.

The prohibition against throwing debris from automobiles would be written into the present law dealing with waste disposal along highways. Violators could be fined from $25 to $500. A committee amendment which would have reduced the range of possible fines to $20-$100 was defeated by the House Friday.

Both houses also had crowded calendars at amendment stage. At that level in the House were three resolutions that already have provoked outbursts of oratory on the wets-vs-dry issue and probably will cause more.

The resolutions would submit to the voters in the 1960 election a package of three proposed constitutional amendments.

Two of the resolutions, introduced by Del. J. E. (Ned) Watson (D-Marion), would give the voters the choice of departing in one of two directions from the present bottle-only, state liquor store system.

One of the Watson resolutions calls for a vote on giving the legislature power to legalize liquor by the drink. The other choice is a return to prohibition, except that sale of 3.2 beer would continue.

Defeat of both Watson amendments at the polls would leave West Virginia with the system it has now. So, in Watson's opinion, would the unlikely eventuality of adoption of both amendments by the voters.

The Temperance League of West Virginia wanted the referendum — if there must be one — to include a third choice under which voters could vote positively for the status quo. So, the league had Del. W. T. Brotherton Jr. (D-Kanawha) introduce the third resolution, under which the electorate could vote on writing the present state monopoly system into the constitution.

In the ordinary course of events, the resolutions will come up tomorrow for adoption and will require approval by two-thirds of the full membership — 67 delegates. There was the possibility, though, that someone might try to settle the issue today with a maneuver to kill the measures on amendment stage.

A Glimpse Of Things To Come

Probers Lay Groundwork In Ohio Coin Machine Quiz

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate rackets investigators have provided a glimpse of what their inquiry into Ohio coin machine racketeering may be like next month.

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy has put into the record the names of two Ohio coin machine men he says attended a mobster convention at Apalachin, N. Y., in 1957.

Their names: John Scalish and John A. De Marco, both of Cleveland.

Not much has been said about De Marco, except that, according to Kennedy, he accompanied Scalish to the Apalachin convention and has a record.

Scalish, though, was questioned in open hearing last June. He took the Fifth Amendment so persistently that the committee says it won't call him again.

De Marco won't be called either, the committee says.

The committee's central interest in the Ohio proceedings will be Ohio Teamster boss William Presser and his juke box operations in a substantial part of the state.

But Scalish, Kennedy insists, is definitely part of Presser's operations.

Scalish, according to Kennedy's comments in the record, is head of an outfit in Cleveland called the Mayfield Road Gang. An associate of racketeer Mickey Cohen, he has a criminal record, including a 10-to-25 year sentence for robbery that ended after two years with a pardon.

One question put to Scalish by Kennedy was:

"Would you tell us what your relationship has been with Mr. William Finnegan, who is the secretary of the Cleveland Federation of Labor, or who has been secretary of the Cleveland Federation of Labor?"

"I decline to answer on the ground it might tend to incriminate me," Scalish replied.

"Isn't it correct," Kennedy persisted, "that you have a very close working relationship with that gentleman (Finnegan)?"

"Are you aware that Mr. Finnegan also has a criminal record for burglary?"

Scalish still wouldn't talk.

When Floods In News

Business And City Fathers Worry At Water Dearth

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Even when floods are front page news a large portion of the business population — and of city fathers, too — worries about the increasing dearth of water supplies.

Industry needs more each year. And per capita consumption mounts faster than the growth in population. The Interior Department reports that in the last five years more than 1,000 communities have had to ration water at some time or other.

The world has lots of water — but often in the wrong places or the wrong condition for human use.

Most is in the oceans. And schemes for conversion of salt water into fresh at reasonable cost is, in President Eisenhower's words, "on the threshold of solution."

Much of the available water is carried in cloud formations. And methods of getting it to earth where and when wanted are under constant study and trial.

Lots of the nation's water is concentrated in rivers that often overflow with costly damage. Flood control programs tackle both this problem and the salvaging of the water for later beneficial use.

The cost problem in turning sea water or brackish water into fresh is being tackled in a number of ways: solar distillation, evaporators that flash water into vapor under vacuum, a freezing process, a nuclear reactor sideline, an electric membrane method.

The cost now averages out at $1.75 per thousand gallons. Science hopes to cut this to 50 or 75 cents within five years.

Congress has appropriated 10 million dollars for five experimental plants. And various corporations here and abroad are trying out schemes of their own.

Woman, 2 Youngsters Treated For Injuries

A city woman and two youngsters, injured in separate mishaps, were treated at City Hospital over the weekend.

Mrs. Marjorie Smith, 18, of College St. was treated Sunday night for an ankle injury suffered in a fall.

Rosemary Morris, 11, daughter of Mrs. Donna Morris of Dixonville, was treated yesterday for a dog bite of the right ankle.

Jimmy Hamilton, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hamilton of R. D. 2, was treated Saturday for a cut of the mouth received in a fall at home.

Hearing Due At Lisbon For Route 7 Relocation

LISBON — The State Highway Department is scheduled to conduct a public hearing this afternoon at 1:30 at the Courthouse on a proposed relocation of Route 7 to eliminate several hazardous curves in Madison and Elkrun Townships.

The new stretch would begin 2.5 miles north of the northern junction with Route 30 and continue to the Madison-Elkrun Township line. Then it would swing west, crossing the Middle Fork of Little Beaver Creek and rejoin the existing highway at the southern junction with Township Rd. 896.

The existing highway follows the curving creek for several miles. The proposed improvement is nine-tenths of a mile long. It would shorten the driving distance by about a half mile. The cost has been estimated at $500,000. Department records show that more than 2,500 vehicles use the stretch daily.

Navy Reveals Concern

Over Soviet Sub Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adm. Arleigh A. Burke has told Congress the Navy is greatly concerned about the possibility of a surprise Soviet submarine attack on the United States.

Testimony by Burke, chief of naval operations, and William C. Foster, a leading American international negotiator, was made public over the weekend. They testified before the Senate Disarmament subcommittee Jan. 30.

Foster said stepped-up development of missiles and other military weapons would strengthen the hand of the United States in disarmament talks with the Soviet Union.

Burke told the senators the Navy has forces searching up and down both coasts all the time for enemy submarines.

Ike's New Jet Plane Will Be Ready By April

RENTON, Wash. (AP)—The interior of President Eisenhower's new five-million-dollar jet transport won't be as plush as that of his present plane, Columbine III.

The jet, designated the VC137, is well along on the assembly line at the Boeing Airplane Co. plant and is scheduled to be delivered to the Military Air Transport service in April.

The plane is a cousin of the commercial jets now coming into passenger service and will have a speed of 600 miles an hour.

Two other planes of the same type are due to come off the line in May and June. They will be at the disposal of the President, vice president and other top government officials.

We Owe Ourselves Confidence, Too

Franklin D. Roosevelt, trying to explain the philosophy of deficit financing in his time, said the national debt was "money we owe ourselves."

Therefore, according to the philosophy of government spending that had been taken up by disciples of the British economist, John Maynard Keynes, there was no reason to feel handicapped by old-fashioned rules about balancing income and outgo in any particular year.

The government possessed and should use the authority to plunge into debt, in order to stimulate the national economy, the Keynesians argued. But the other part of their argument was ignored in the United States.

KEYNES HELD that authority to go into debt should be used only when the national economy needed to be stimulated; that the debt should be retired when no further stimulation was needed.

In the hands of U.S. politicians, Keynesian spending turned into a year-in-and-year-out habit—a kind of economic drug addiction. Instead of tapering off when the economic pain had subsided, American politicians simply kept spending more and more, because their addiction to spending had become as much of a disease as the recession that started the addiction in the first place.

This is the problem today—spending addiction.

When Franklin Roosevelt said it was safe and proper to pile up public debt because it was "money we owe ourselves," he had no idea the sum would grow so large. In the first 10 years of the New Deal, the national debt climbed from approximately 22 billion dollars to 40 billion at the outbreak of World War II in 1939 and went over 200 billion by 1944. Its authorized limit now is 238 billion and will have to be lifted again this year.

The "money we owe ourselves" finally has loomed so large that investors are beginning to lick their lips when they think about it.

THE KEYNESIAN philosophy has backfired in the United States. Spending now is being advocated for its own sake. The admirers of Keynes have changed their loyalty and now are admirers of spending for spending's sake. The "money they owe themselves" is not going to be repaid unless they snap out of their trance.

They are neglecting the "confidence they owe themselves in their own money." Money, after all, has no intrinsic value. It is merely a way to keep track of the confidence that the American people and their international neighbors must have in the value it represents as a token of responsibility.

John Maynard Keynes had a big idea. But he must be turning in his grave over its abuse by political prodigals who cannot understand why "money we owe ourselves" must be backed up with confidence in its value; i.e., in the ability of the government to live within its income.

Camel's Nose Under The Tent

If the New York City policemen whose fingers have been burned in the city's latest gambling scandal run across an estimate that New York State will be taking in 70 million a year from bingo by 1961, they should not feel bitter. The estimate is based on New Jersey's "take" of 21 million last year.

Perhaps the policemen already have read estimates of the millions their state, which needs more money to satisfy numerous demands on its budget, could take in if it legalized off-track betting on horse racing. If New York then went a little further and took a cut out of baseball, football and basketball pools, money would be pouring in from all directions. To cap the climax, it might run a state lottery and milk gambling addicts dry of their last dimes and quarters.

The camel's nose is under the tent, and the policemen who have become a little confused about the difference between legal and illegal noses in a state putting on a desperate search for more revenue are at least understandable if not pardonable.

They know that in the morals of their city and their state gambling is not immoral per se. It is merely illegal, if nothing has been done by legal authority to change its status from something outside the law to something inside the law.

There is, however, one catch in the process—and it always is played down the presentation of the argument for legalizing more and more forms of gambling.

Public authority can change the status of gambling from illegal to legal, but it cannot change the kind of people who flock around gambling the way ants are attracted to chocolate cake at a picnic. Sooner or later, the sight of all that easy money overwhelms them and they begin to figure out ways to channel it into their pockets, at the expense of the worthy causes that were supposed to make gambling respectable.

When America was new, gambling was wide open and legal. It was the gamblers who finally exhausted public tolerance for gambling. The legislatures—and the U.S. Congress—merely confirmed public opinion that there were too many ants crawling on the chocolate cake.

The Brighter Side

A poll of high school youths as a preliminary to a new Boy Scout program has delivered another effective blow at the distorted feeling toward too many of our teen-agers.

The results announced at various district meetings last week during the 49th anniversary of Scouting indicate that most boys are more concerned about their education and their future than about standing on street corners or dashing here and there in automobiles.

And surprising as it may seem, the poll showed that parents—especially fathers—still hold the center of authority in the home.

The survey of some 20,000 high school boys shows most are sincere, energetic and eager to assume responsibility in a mature, intelligent way. To be sure, there are scatterbrains and those with criminal tendencies in the teen-age bracket, but no more than at other age levels.

The poll not only has laid the basis for the Explorer Scout program, but should help remove some of the fuzziness about teen-age ambitions and beliefs and restore faith in our younger generation.

It also should serve as an awakening for some adults as to what young people expect of them and what they should do about it.

The Once Over

("Justice Department is probing General Motors"—News item.)

Q. You are charged, with being one of the most successful corporations on earth.

A. Is that bad?

Q. Guilty or not guilty of being a bulwark of American economy upon whose success or failure American prosperity greatly depends?

A. I plead yes and no.

Q. How can you plead both ways?

A. After wading through government statements it's easy.

Q. Where were you on the night of Dec. 7, 1941?

A. I was in there taking directions from Uncle Sam in a war for survival.

Q. Do you mean to say automobiles were important to survival?

A. The ones I made had cannon, treads and rockets on 'em.

A. Are you 10 feet tall?

A. I've been too busy to go into height-guessing games, but I'm not in a business specializing in midgets.

Q. Do you deny you are a monopoly?

A. When I read the quarterly production figures of my competitors I find it hard to believe.

Q. Is it true or false that you have your fingers in too many pies?

A. All I know about pies is that no pie maker's job calls for a change of models, fins or feeders. The bakery business seems comparatively soft.

Q. Don't you think it is bad for General Motors to make so many different autos?

A Legal Brake

Eleven convictions or pleas of guilty have marked manslaughter charges in traffic cases over the last two years in Columbiana County.

No one wins in such cases. The chain of events represents nothing but one heartbreak after another.

But such convictions do serve as a necessary and harsh legal deterrent to traffic accidents. And they reflect an increased interest by authorities and citizens in a problem that grows more complex with each new automobile and each new driver.

Routine safety precautions play their part. But all the yellow lines, all the speed signs and all the "slow" warnings in the world won't eliminate death on the highway. The frailty of the human mind rules it otherwise.

There's always someone eager and willing to take that extra chance which can mean death. So if your foot's on the gas and the urge is there, slow down for safety's sake. Otherwise yours could be the next manslaughter conviction.

One early-day superstition called for the bathing of one's eyes with the first snow fall in March—it being thought that this was conducive to clear sight.

By H. I. Phillips

A. In 1958 I had begun to think two types would be one too many.

Q. How are you doing this year?

A. If I get any time away from investigations and a chance to attend to my job, 1959 business could be good. But I'm not optimistic.

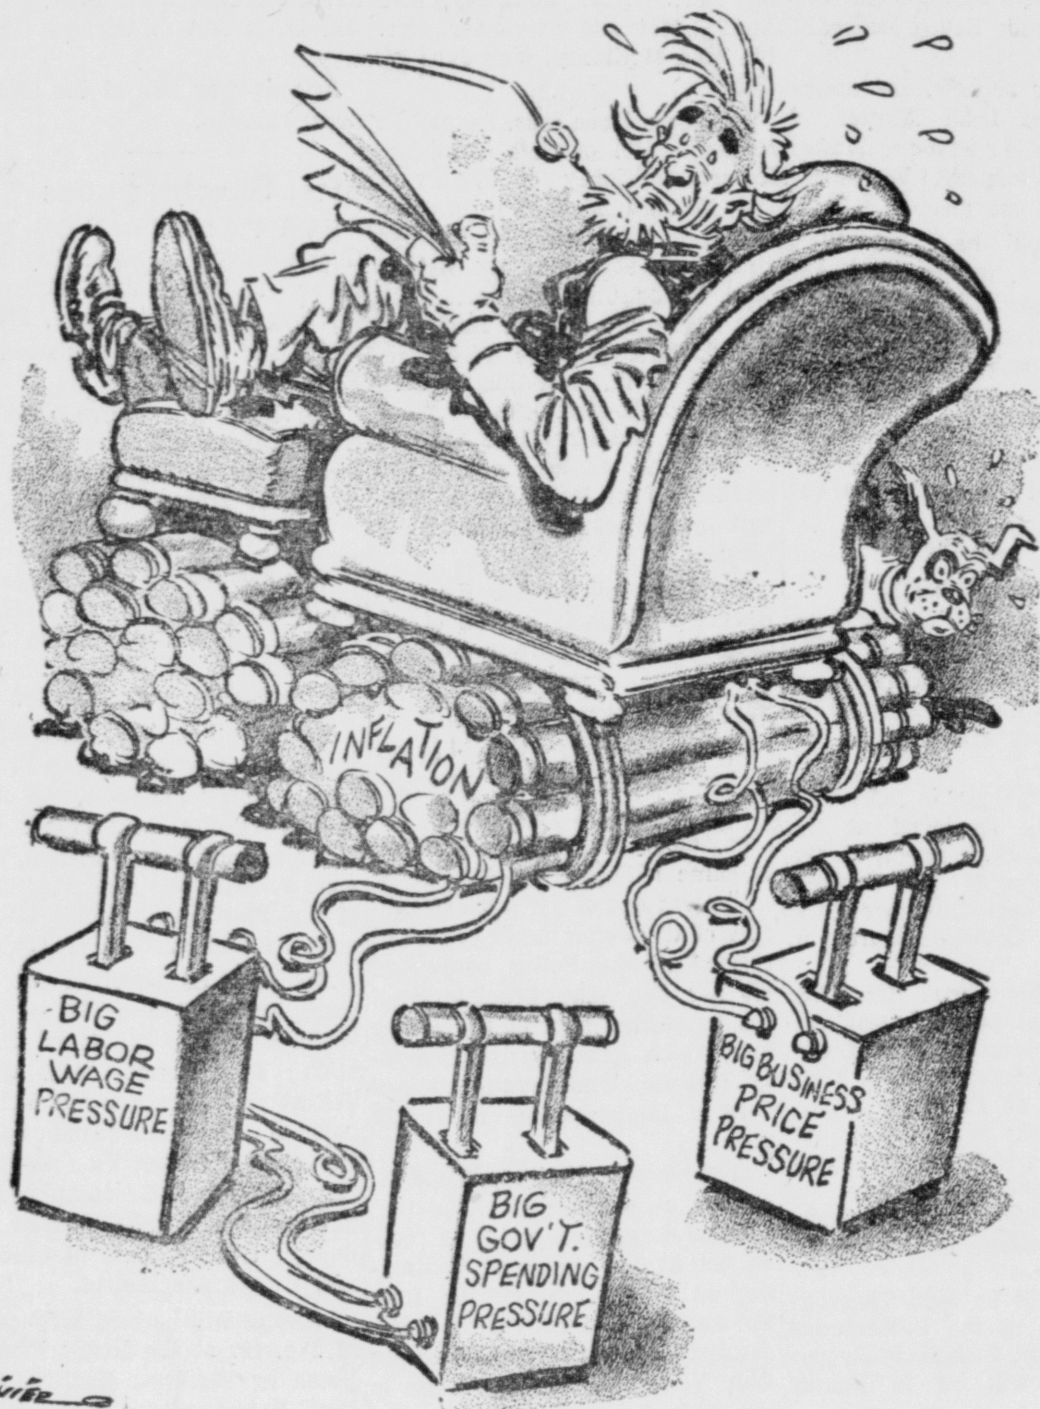

GOV. ROCKEFELLER of New York, despite early squawks, may turn out to have improved White House chances by tax proposals, since he presented a real novelty in picture of an American public servant who doesn't turn from a man into a mouse in any issue raking votes. Mayors, town managers, governors and politicians almost everywhere crawl under rug when money problem calls for people to pay the fiddler. Rockefeller's "Let's face facts, votes or no votes" is epochal move. He may yet wind up as "Mr. Hard-facts, the Man Who Wants the Bills Paid."

J. P. MORGAN MERGER with Guarantee Trust is to be voted on soon. Is it possible to get that much dough into one pot? We know one stockholder who says he will object on these grounds: (1) It will disturb the ghost of the first J. P. Morgan; (2) it will give the bank clerks a superiority complex; (3) any merger of the House of Morgan with anybody anywhere must be pure fiction, or an optical illusion.

Living Dangerously

Farm Socialism Aids Capitalism

By Ralph McGill

ATLANTA

Politics of farm economics has produced the somewhat startling combination of U.S. Senators Herman Talmadge of Georgia and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota. They have been designated by Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson as co-leaders in the Democratic party effort to prepare and present a new farm bill.

Far apart on such matters as civil rights and school integration, they are together on an agricultural program which is sure to become one of the great issues of the congressional session.

When the "old order" collapsed in the great world depression which was signaled by the stock market crash in the autumn of 1929, the farmer had long felt the pressure of declining prices.

The old order did not really collapse. It came to an end. All over the world thrones were falling and new governments were trying to grapple with the bitterness of discontented peoples.

There was still room in America for rugged individualism, the remedy proposed by Herbert Hoover. But the process of industrialization and the growth of cities demanded new approaches.

EVERYWHERE, the most demanding problem, immediate and long range, was that of agriculture. It is worth noting that the complexities of this problem are so great that even the most ruthless of totalitarian regimes—Russia—has not been able to solve it.

In one of his books of memoirs of the second great war, Sir Winston Churchill tells of a question put to the late Joe Stalin. The great British leader asked if the attempt to collectivize Russian farms had not been perhaps more difficult than the war efforts.

Stalin answered so impulsively that none may doubt it was a sensitive subject. He said that the agricultural problem had been war. Some 10 million persons had been killed or imprisoned, he said. And there had been no solution.

Only a few months and Nikita Khrushchev made a radical change in the Soviet agricultural regulations. There will be more. It is a worldwide story. Neither the Fascist totalitarianism of Spain nor the Communism of Poland or Yugoslavia has done any better with the problem than Russia.

There is, however, one major difference. Ours is a dilemma of survival. The Soviets, for example, who claim to have invented almost everything, publicly admit they are now applying U.S. farm methods to their own production plans.

THE NEW FARM PLAN for our complex and changing agriculture will be new and radical.

Twenty-six years ago the New Deal found the American farm system literally prostrate. A system of planting controls, with price-support loans on crops which did not bring "parity prices," was enacted. The American farmer responded. He planted less acreage to the major crops and produced more crops than before. Needs of the second great war brought unlimited plantings.

Since the war the surplus problem has been acute, costly and politically embarrassing.

The cost of storage alone runs more than a billion dollars a year. The Land Bank amendment to the Farm Act took a lot of land, always the least productive, out of use. The resulting loss in sales of seed, fertilizer and equipment, especially to small town farm-area merchants, was harsh.

The new program on which Democratic leaders are at work will call for direct subsidies to the farmers. The market price of commodities would be free. But the government would pay farmers the difference between that price and a "fair" price which would be fixed by a formula in the new legislation.

The farm story is an interesting example of how a free, capitalist society employs semi-socialist measures to strengthen the American system of capitalism. The subsidies are now indirect, through price supports. The new bill will make them direct.

The Agriculture Department now spends more than seven billion dollars per year. Democrats believe the new plan will cost less. They think, too, it will save the family-size farm and put surpluses on the world market—not in storage.

There is opposition. Most of the American Farm Bureau membership will oppose. Congressmen from urban areas fret lest the small businessman who, like the farmer, is being squeezed out, also ask for direct subsidies.

But growers of the six basic (and most political) crops—wheat, cotton, corn, rice, peanuts and tobacco—may provide the strength to pass the bill.

'Chickens Come Home'

By Raymond Moley

Political Micawbers who buy votes by unscrupulous, irresponsible appeals to public hankering for something—for nothing sometimes find that success is very costly.

The heads of some of the candidates who wallowed in publicity after their glorious victories in November now rumple the pillows in the governors' mansions in long sleepless nights. For unlike the happy senators and congressmen, whose equally unscrupulous promises can be redeemed by whirling printing presses, governors must measurably pay as they go.

THE AGONIES of three of these promising princes were able to witness with a grim satisfaction, tempered only by the realization that our money, not theirs, is involved in the painful operations that lie ahead.

Nelson Rockefeller is finding that it is one thing to sponsor, with inherited tax-exempt money, the reports of the Rockefeller Brothers Fund envisioning a happy citizenry of moochers on government bounty and another matter entirely to face these people as lacerated taxpayers. I have in these chronicles as far ago as last autumn described some of his promises, including a pledge to our Puerto Rican brethren that they should have relief money without any resident requirement and live without honest toil in government housing.

One of his troubles is that he succeeded as governor an equally lavish exponent of the welfare state, Averell Harriman, who made merry with the nest eggs left by a more prudent Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

It isn't a matter of party, because whenever a Connecticut resident meets a New Yorker these days he makes merry about his Gov. Ribicoff, a Democrat, who started his second term with a wholesale slaughter of bureaus and tax-eaters in the government.

IN MICHIGAN the inexorable, soulless balance sheet has finally got Mennen Williams in a corner where neither his personal charm nor Walter Reuther can help.

The Dulles Years

By James Marlow

A Standoff While West, East Mustered Strength

WASHINGTON

John Foster Dulles' six years as secretary of state have been more than unique. They provided the heart and guidelines of an era which now, whether or not he returns to full-time duty, may have to change.

President Truman trusted Secretary of State Dean Acheson. But President Eisenhower's confidence in Dulles has been so extraordinary that it seems accurate to say the secretary almost completely dominated foreign policy.

The Dulles years have been an era of standoff by the West and communism in which they gathered strength for any future tests. The first great test of this period is approaching in Germany.

Three times at least before Dulles became secretary—during the Truman-Acheson administration—world communism tried its muscles in a major way to see how much will the West had to resist.

Three times it failed because it was resisted—in the Berlin blockade, in the Korean War, in the pressure on Greece and Turkey in the late 1940s.

These pushes were stopped by the Truman-Acheson policy—called containment—of building military bases and alliances around the Communist world and by its willingness to fight, as it showed in Korea.

The Communist world—especially the Soviet part of it—realized it had some growing to do. It subsided, at least temporarily, behind its frontiers and avoided major crises.

There was never any doubt it would push hard again, when it thought it could.

The Truman-Acheson policy has been Dulles' basic policy. He adopted it, made it his own, and expanded it with new alliances.

He brought to it enormous energy and dedication, as his 560,000 miles of travel around the earth testify. These were essentially journeys to keep the fences mended. There was something almost heroic in this man's determination to do everything himself. Because Dulles has pursued this containment policy relentlessly, he has been accused of being too rigid, too unbending, or, to use a phrase recently become popular, too inflexible.

True, he made few if any concessions to the Communists. But they made few, if any, either.

Just because Dulles devoted himself so thoroughly to the standoff policy it is hard to recall anything which history could point to as original in his six years.

That does not mean history will find fault with his six years of stewardship as a whole, although it may quarrel with pieces of it. Perhaps in this era the Dulles policy was the only sensible one.

One thing is sure: in those six years, except for the conquest of half of Viet Nam and perhaps scattered islands near China, world communism has not obtained an extra inch of real estate.

But now the Soviets, after hibernating for years, are fully conscious of their power, as they demonstrated with their missile claims. As if to mark the end of a period, they are pushing again.

They have made demands—in calling for a Western withdrawal from West Berlin—which involve not only this country's containment policy but its relations with its allies, its position in Europe, and the future of Germany.

And if the Soviets feel powerful enough now to push in Germany, they may also feel ready to push elsewhere.

Because of the crisis over Germany, American foreign policy will undergo one of its severest tests. Containment may no longer work. New policies may be needed. It seems unlikely Dulles will be well enough to make them, if they are made.

It is ironic that at this moment—when Dulles is stricken with cancer—Soviet pressure may show that his policy has reached the end of its usefulness.

Another Sen. Borah?

By Jay G. Hayden

Speculation, fore and aft, over arrival of J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) as chairman of the highly important Senate Foreign Relations Committee, recalls the stormy succession to the same post of Sen. William E. Borah (R-Idaho) under closely similar circumstances.

Sen. Borah, from his appointment to the Foreign Relations Committee in 1911, had been a thorn in the side of all presidents alike—Taft, Harding and Coolidge, Republicans and Wilson, Democrat—and even more so of secretaries of state, from William Jennings Bryan to Charles Evans Hughes.

During 13 years' membership on that committee Sen. Borah had led at least one first-class rumpus in every session of Congress by attacking presidential foreign policies.

He figured first in opposition to President Taft's trade reciprocity agreement with Canada; helped to defeat ratification of Wilson's World War I League of Nations pact; and wound up by fighting Hughes, the Harding-Collidge secretary of state, at almost every turn.

So it was that when Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge (R-Mass) died, Nov. 10, 1924, with the effect of elevating Borah to the chairmanship of the Foreign Relations Committee, there was a mighty commotion. For one thing, Secretary Hughes announced his resignation. Many believed he resigned because he refused to try to cope with a Senate majority which was led by Borah and composed of insurgent Republicans and Democrats.

BUT CURIOSLY, Borah upon assumption of the chairmanship, with the effect of acquiring a status of direct responsibility, underwent a great change. Under Republican secretaries of state Frank B. Kellogg and Henry L. Stimson, Borah was as regular as clockwork, again and again pulling administration measures out of the Senate fire.

It was only after President Roosevelt took over that Borah, returned to minority status, resumed his old waspish ways—for instance, sparking the fight against repeal of the neutrality act shortly before his death, Jan. 19, 1940.

The moral of this comparison is that Fulbright, as the responsible leader of the Senate in the field of foreign policy, may act very differently than he has heretofore as a foot-free, lone turk.

Like Borah, Sen. Fulbright has exceptionally high qualifications for statesmanship. Graduating from Arkansas University he won a Rhodes Scholarship at Oxford University, where he took honors in history and political science.

He returned to the United States to take a law degree at George Washington University, stepping immediately, in 1934, into a department of justice attorneyship under President Roosevelt.

In 1956 he became a professor of law at the University of Arkansas and three years later was named president of that institution. He was elected to Congress in 1942 and two years later to his present Senate seat.

During the past two years Sen. Fulbright has established himself as the most caustic among Democratic critics of Secretary of State Dulles—possibly excepting Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore), whose bitter tongue is virtually all-embracing.

SEN. FULBRIGHT'S main contention lately has been that Dulles should "get off dead center" and generate new ideas for "hawking out" the cold war.

Quizzed since his elevation as to just what that stricture means, Sen. Fulbright offered little that was either new or clearly definitive. He said, for example, that he would like to see the Russians, who have "become very cocky," put "a little more on the defensive" with more "initiative" shown by the United States.

Letter To The Editor

It seems the pottery workers of this area are more concerned with the pettiness of 12 women gold stampers than they are with the possibility of the total unemployment of 1,500 people.

It could be that when a pottery that has been working under adverse conditions such as low tariff, foreign competition and trouble at home might find it hard to survive.

It is about time someone woke up to the fact that unions are to protect the manufacturers from rash demands the same as they are to protect the workers.

As a former IBOP member, I would like to see a few changes. When it comes to a place where a few people can dictate the right to work to hundreds its time for a change. Someone is at fault.

Could it be the members of the union? Or a few of them? Or maybe the president of the IBOP is afraid to assert his authority by ordering the offending parties back to work.

That so many pottery workers should suffer a lack of work, just for a few selfish women is unbelievable.

Did you ever see the Police Department try to take over a fire engine because it was new? Or a printer take over a reporter's job because the reporter had new typewriter the company had acquired for him? So it is with the gold stampers and underglaze workers. Underglaze is underglaze work no matter what.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann: I'm a widow with two children, both grown. Last May I became acquainted with a most attractive man. He was a salesman, calling on the firm at which I'm a secretary.

He told me he was a widower and invited me to have dinner with him. We hit it off immediately. I know the next part won't sound very nice but I must be honest with you. Please understand I was lonely. I invited him to stay at my home because he said hotel rooms were depressing and he found my place so cheerful.

He was with me almost three months, working the territory during the week and returning weekends. Then he left to travel the other coast. He was gone for months but wrote almost every day.

Last week he came back to town and moved in again. I decided it was time to talk about our future. Then he told me.

He is NOT a widower. He has a wife and three children. He claims he loves me and if I will be patient and trust him, things will work out.

I'm deeply hurt and troubled. How can a decent woman protect herself against this sort of thing? —ADA.

Dear Ada: A decent woman can "protect herself against this sort of thing" by not inviting salesmen to move into her cheerful home.

Any man who could conveniently bury a wife and three children with one sentence isn't much good. Don't deal in futures with this four-flusher. He probably knows women with cheerful homes all over the country.

Worm In The Apple

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a girl 17 with a huge problem. Three months ago I decided I liked my best girl friend's steady. I turned on the charm and got him away from her.

She was very broken up and everyone at school took her side. She never stopped being nice to me but I know our friendship is finished forever. Now I go out of my way to avoid her because I feel ashamed and guilty.

The boy has told me things about this girl which may or may not be true. Anyway, they aren't nice and now I have lost respect for him. I would like to get rid of him but I don't know how to after I went to so much trouble to get him. He likes me a lot which makes it difficult.

I'm sorry I ever got into this mess. Please tell me what to do. —STUCK IN A SELF-MADE TRAP.

Dear Stuck: So — the forbidden apple had a worm in it? Send this boy on his merry way and don't worry about how he'll take the catastrophe. He sounds like the type who heals in a hurry. I hope you've learned for all time: "That which we break all rules to obtain, is seldom worth it."

Two Types To Avoid

Dear Ann: Do you think it's proper to invite my former sweetheart to my wedding?

I went with him for two years and broke off when he started to talk about marriage, as I didn't love him in that way. He took it very hard but in the past year we've been the best of friends.

Please hurry the advice. I'm waiting for your answer. —MAIME

Dear Maime: Since you've been "the best of friends" for a year I think it would be safe to invite him. The only kind of ex-boy friends we don't want at the wedding are those who are still torching and might sob out loud when the organ music starts, or get sloppy drunk and cry in the punch.

Confidentially

TO TORTURED FRANCES: Your mother made a mess of her life and she's doing her best to mess up yours. Since Mother has "told a million lies" and your husband is "practically a saint," accept his word. And tell that sister-in-law and the rest of the phony caboodle when you want to hear from them you'll rattle their cages.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

2 Men Nabbed In Home Theft

Salineville Hearings Slated For Suspects

SALINEVILLE — Hearings are slated tonight for a Salem man and a Minerva district companion charged with petty larceny in the theft of household items from the home of Robert Whiteman of the Salineville-Summitville Rd. Wednesday.

Police Chief Cleo Mellott said Dale Whipkey of Minerva R. D. 3 and Donald House of Salem were taken into custody late Saturday night and committed to the Wellsville jail.

Chief Mellott said the two stopped at Whiteman's home last week to obtain directions to a home. After they left, Whiteman found two clocks, a lamp and a leather briefcase with papers missing.

He was able to provide identification of the men to police and the briefcase — into which some of Whipkey's papers had inadvertently placed by one of the men — was later found where they had thrown it out of a car helping to provide further identification, police said.

Minerva police took Whipkey into custody about 8:30 p. m. Saturday and Salem police located House early Sunday morning. Chief Mellott and Special Officer Carl Brown conveyed the pair to the Wellsville Jail.

The village jail is slated for repairs. They will be arraigned before Mayor Karl Lindner tonight at 7.

Durk was arrested at 12:09 a. m. Sunday at W. 8th and Division Sts., police said.

Henry W. Dunn of Akron was fined $10 and costs on a charge of passing over a yellow line. He was cited at 9 a. m. today on Route 30 by the State Highway Patrol.

Terry A. Fullerton, 714 Bradshaw Ave., cited by the patrol Thursday morning for ignoring a stop sign on Route 30, forfeited an $11 bond today.

A new short film, "Mr. Finley's Feelings," has been obtained as part of the association's education program and will be available along with speakers for any area group wishing a special program, Kendall said.

A Big Question In Columbus

Is DiSalle Displaying Leadership?

By DUANE E. CROFT
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Is Gov. Michael V. DiSalle exerting real leadership in presenting and promoting his program in the 103rd Ohio General Assembly?

That question — or one of several variations of it — is along the more common topics of conversation around the Statehouse these days.

It stems from the chief executive's practice of sending to the Legislature special messages on particular subjects without attaching specific bills to implement the recommendations he may include in them.

This can be interpreted either as leadership or lack of it, depending mostly upon which side of the aisle you view it from.

Message Called Vague

Generally the Republicans have criticized the governor's messages to date as so vague as to be of almost no value for legislative purposes.

Some of the GOP members tend to feel that by failing to offer drafts of bills, the governor wants to pass the buck of responsibility from legislation.

The Democrats, on the other hand, assert that DiSalle's messages leave little doubt as to where he stands or what he wants on a given subject.

They declare, moreover, that by leaving the drafting of legislation up to the members of the Assembly, he is merely respecting the constitutional separation of powers between the two branches of government.

DiSalle Agrees

That is DiSalle's own explanation as presented in a preface to last Tuesday's dissertation on capital punishment. Then he added:

"It is possible to conceive of the executive branch of the government presenting a draft in support of its proposals which would be so altered by amendment as it proceeds through the legislative channels that the executive would deem it necessary to veto the bill once it reached his desk."

That strikes some Republicans as a distant possibility in view of the solid majorities the governor's party enjoys in both chambers of this Assembly.

But House Speaker James A. Lantz says the chief executive's procedure, despite the fact that the Democrats have the votes to push through anything he wants, is merely further proof that he does not want to usurp any of the prerogatives of the Legislature.

Wants Facts On Issue

Lantz referred to statements in his majority policy committee meeting the other day.

Citing the Democratic platform of 1958, he urged his top lieutenants to "start digging" for the facts on this session's major issues so they will be prepared to draft and handle the proper legislation when the time comes. This especially applies to taxation and finances, he said.

The governor, he added, would make specific recommendations to them in his budget message, due in a week or two. But he made it clear he thinks the responsibility for carrying the ball rests with the legislators themselves.

"We would be shirking our duty if we just sat back and waited for the governor's office to tell us exactly what moves to make," he said.

The Republicans also feel there may be some lack of liaison between the governor and the majority leaders in the Senate and House. They say this may be a natural result of the Democrats' lack of experience as majority party in recent years.

But the Democrats, though willing to admit they are inexperienced, emphatically deny there is any dearth of contact with DiSalle.

"The liaison may not always be apparent, but it exists," is the way Lantz put it.

There is no doubt that in the last couple of weeks visits by the legislators to the governor's office and telephone calls between them have been more frequent.

And that indicates that both sides are gaining in experience, too.

Change Of Heart

In supporting his desire to abolish capital punishment, Gov. DiSalle confessed he had had a change of heart.

His message to the Legislature pointed out that in 1937, when he was a legislator, he introduced and succeeded in getting the Ohio "baby Lindbergh act" making kidnapping a capital offense.

The governor blamed his action on his being "emotionally aroused" over a prominent abduction case at the time.

The infant son of flying hero Charles A. Lindbergh was kidnapped and slain in 1932 in New Jersey. Bruno Richard Hauptmann was convicted and executed for the crime, which launched a wave of federal and state legislation making kidnapping for ransom punishable by death.

Sergeant-At-Arms

Senate Sergeant-at-Arms Thomas Burkett of Massillon is a man who takes his job seriously.

Even when an event like Wednesday's debate on the SUB bill packs the chamber's gallery with interested observers, Burkett sees that order is maintained and rules are obeyed.

He keeps his crew of pages on their toes and takes an almost fatherly interest in looking after the needs of the senators.

Although he is provided with a desk at the main entrance to the floor, he is on his feet almost constantly while the chamber is in session lest he miss a chance to be of service.

'Gentlemen'

It is traditional in the legislative bodies of this country to refer to senators as "gentlemen." The title, however, does not apply in the Ohio Assembly if the signs on a couple of doors in the Statehouse can be believed.

On the House side, the door is marked "Gentlemen." On the Senate side, it reads simply "men."

Woman Goes On Trial In Hired Killing Case

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan, accused of plotting the death of her daughter-in-law to keep her son for herself, is to go on trial today on charge of first degree murder.

The prosecution is expected to ask the death penalty for the 54-year-old woman, claiming that she was so jealous of her son, Frank, that she plotted for months trying to hire a killer.

Mrs. Duncan's chief accusers are two Santa Barbara laborers. They say Mrs. Duncan promised them $6,000 to kill her son's pregnant bride, Olga Kupczyk Duncan, 30, a nurse.

Luis Moya, 22, and Augustine Baldonado, 25, have admitted luring the nurse from her apartment late one November night, choking and beating her during a 20-mile auto trip, and burying her alongside a mountain road.

City Motorist Fined By Squire At Newell

A city motorist was fined $65 and costs on 2 charges at a hearing Friday before Squire Arley White of Newell following a traffic mishap at 7 p. m.

Elza Moore, 62, of Henry Ave., was fined $40 and costs on a hit-skip charge, and $25 and costs for driving without an operator's license.

Deputies at the sheriff's office in New Cumberland said Moore's auto struck a parked car in Newell.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Limit Toddler's Actions In Kitchen

The average mother spends considerable time in the kitchen. And the average child under 5 likes to spend as much time with her as possible.

Still only 10 or 15 months old, he may be happy for some intervals in his play pen at the edge of the kitchen door. If, after he begins to creep and toddle, he has learned to avoid a few things and places in the living room, he may also be trained to stay for short periods at a place in the kitchen farthest from the stove.

There he can have fun with lids, pans and other safe kitchen utensils and be near his mother.

Though very interesting to this youngster, the kitchen can also be a very dangerous place for him unless he has been trained to observe certain limitations there. If he's nearly always under his mother's feet in the kitchen he can be hurt.

NO MATTER how vigilant Mother may be, she can spill or drop some heavy or hot things. Cooking liquids can splatter out and she can leave a sharp tool or a pan of hot food he can handle or pull down on himself. And when she uses one of the electric gadgets, his little fingers can be quicker than her protective hands.

Yet this little child can be trained to be relatively safe in the kitchen. Having learned elsewhere in the house, earlier, to respect "no" or "don't" in relation to a few forbidden things, this training can be extended when he's in the kitchen. If he's your little child, show him clearly where he may play with safe kitchen things. The moment he strays noticeably from this place say no and back it up.

Later, as you let him go farther from this safe place in the kitchen, make it clear that he must not be near the stove, or touch it or reach above himself for anything on the drainboard or kitchen table. A few sharp, consistent smacks on his hand or buttock may be necessary. Be sure he feels each smack and that he never can reach above him without getting this safe penalty instantly.

WITH CONSISTENT training, the tot can get the general notion that he must never reach above him in the kitchen and learn, also, to keep himself from doing so. This can become automatic. And what an accomplishment for him and you! These safety rules in the kitchen can prove useful for his further safety development elsewhere.

My bulletins, "First Steps in Training Tot in Safety" and "How to Teach Child Meaning of No," may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

14 X-Ray Surveys Scheduled For 1959 In Beaver County

X-ray surveys in 14 Beaver County communities have been arranged for 1959 by the Beaver County Tuberculosis Association, it announced today at Beaver.

Miss Elma C. Graham, executive director of the association, said copies of the schedule for the 14 clinics are being mailed to all county clubs, industries, labor groups, parent-teacher associations, chamber of commerce groups and other organizations.

The association said these clinics, as well as those held the fourth Thursday of the month in Rochester General Hospital, are designed to assist in finding unknown cases of TB and to protect the 4,075 county boys and girls who reacted to tuberculin tests from breaking down with the disease.

Dr. Ruth Wilson, president of the association, said 169,239 chest X-rays have been taken since the program was started in 1947. Last year the association conducted 33 clinics.

Thirty-four persons, an average of almost two a month, were found to be afflicted with TB. Of this total, 14 were sent to state sanatoriums.

Dr. Wilson said on the average, two of every 1,000 persons X-rayed are found to be afflicted with tuberculosis and one of every 1,000 is sent to sanatoriums for treatment.

Last year, 460 persons who were X-rayed were found to have other chest deviations, such as heart and lung tumors, and were referred to their family doctors for treatment.

Adults, especially those who handle food, were urged to undergo a chest X-ray this year.

Here Are Facts And Figures On Housing Across The U.S.

By ANDREW C. LANG
AP Newsfeatures

It is very easy for someone who writes about houses to become mired in statistics — tons of them. There are dozens of organizations and government agencies constantly engaged in studies and surveys designed to show who buys houses and why.

Apparently this is the time of the year when the statistical machines finish their computations of the previous year's probings.

For our desk has been deluged with housing facts and figures the last few days. We thought you would be interested in seeing some of the more interesting ones. Such as these:

During 1959, the majority of prospective home buyers, who earn between $5,000 and $10,000 a year, will spend between $9,000 and $20,000 to purchase homes.

One-tenth of the buyers, earning $10,000 or more, will spend $25,000 and up for new houses.

The typical single-family home buyer will be approximately 37 years of age, have an annual income of $7,300, purchase a 6-room house for $17,100 and take out a mortgage of $11,100 to buy the house.

While the cost of homes will rise this year, the estimated 4 per cent income boost of most prospective buyers will more than offset this extra price.

And here is something we found of particular interest.

It has always been felt that the FHA and VA housing programs were aimed at broadening the base of home ownership by permitting individuals unable to purchase their own homes through conventional channels to do so.

While this may have been the original premise, it no longer appears to be the case. The figures show that it is the middle-income groups who obtain the bulk of the low down-payment FHA and VA loans.

Those in the low-income group, on the other hand, make more use of the conventional loans than the government-backed loans.

Policeman Saves Boy Clinging To Lake Ice

CLEVELAND (AP) — With a garden hose wrapped around his waist, Sgt. Alexander McRoberts Andrews of the suburban Bratenahl police crawled 20 feet out on the ice of Lake Erie Sunday to rescue an 11-year-old boy.

The boy, John Hudnell, said he had "just wanted to look around" when he broke through the ice. Three friends saw him fall in and summoned William W. Cesa from his nearby home. He called police.

Cesa attempted to throw one end of the hose to the boy, but the youngster, clinging to the ice, was unable to grasp it.

When Andrews arrived, he looped the hose around his waist and crawled out to the boy.

"I was plenty scared," John said.

"I thought I'd never get out of there. I was pretty glad to see that policeman."

U.S. Receives Advice From Pakistan Envoy

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Pakistan ambassador to the United States says he thinks America may lose friends by trying hard to woo neutral nations.

Mohammed Ali, here for a television interview, told a reporter Sunday:

"The people of Pakistan cannot see why the nations that follow neutralism get the assistance. Why must neutrality give them more dividends?"

He said: "I wish it (the United States) would make some distinction between those who sit on the fence and its committed allies."

Pakistan, a U.S. ally, is the western seat of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization and is eastern member of the Middle East Treaty Organization.

Injuries Fatal To Man Who Said Car Hit Him

CLEVELAND (AP) — Joseph P. Zona, who said he was struck by a car Jan. 20, died Sunday night in St. Alexis Hospital.

Police found the 48-year-old truck driver lying against a curb but could find no evidence that he was struck by an automobile.

Coroner Samuel R. Gerber will be asked to rule in the death.

In the United States, the years 1837, 1873, 1893, and 1929 were ones of financial panic.

Student-Built Homes Bring Good Profit

CLINTON, Okla. (AP) — Carpentry students in Clinton High School not only learn to do a job well—they do it profitably.

Under the guidance of vocational instructor Jack Hefner, 30 students will finish their sixth home this spring in as many years—and they expect to sell it, as they have the other five, for a profit.

The newest home, in a fashionable Clinton residential area, will have 1,150 square feet of living space, plus carport and enclosed storage space.

Hefner says profits from construction of the first five houses averaged about $1,000 each. The last home, completed in May, 1959, sold for $15,000.

"Our price for the finished product," Hefner points out, "is very much in line with the cost of the same house constructed by union craftsmen."

Profits from the home-building projects have been used to buy a pickup truck for the vocational carpentry class, power equipment and tools for various class activities, such as picnics for boys who have worked on the projects.

The class members, ranging from 15 to 19 years of age, do all the wood-construction work, including finishing inside the houses. Concrete work, brickwork, plumbing and electrical wiring are done by local contractors.

Union carpenters in Clinton have endorsed the home-building program and permit advanced students from Hefner's classes to enter the trade as second-year apprentices.

Homes aren't the only construction projects taken on by Hefner's students.

In the nine years he has been at the school, his classes have built a brick-and-glass industrial arts shop building at Clinton High school, the high school auto mechanics building, a lunchroom at a grade school, put catwalks, seats and a press box in the stadium, installed science tables and equipment at the high school and helped in construction of a kitchen and lockers at another grade school.

The carpentry students work about six hours a day, Monday through Friday, on their projects, including some classroom time. Hefner explains that he works textbook theory into the actual construction work.

4 Feared Dead In Car Turn Up At Hospital

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — Charles Rogers, 22, emerged from the icy water of Beaver Creek, into which his car had plunged, and told state policeman:

"There are four other guys in the car."

Seriously injured, Rogers, 22, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. For two hours Sunday, the Coast Guard and three skin divers searched for Rogers' friends.

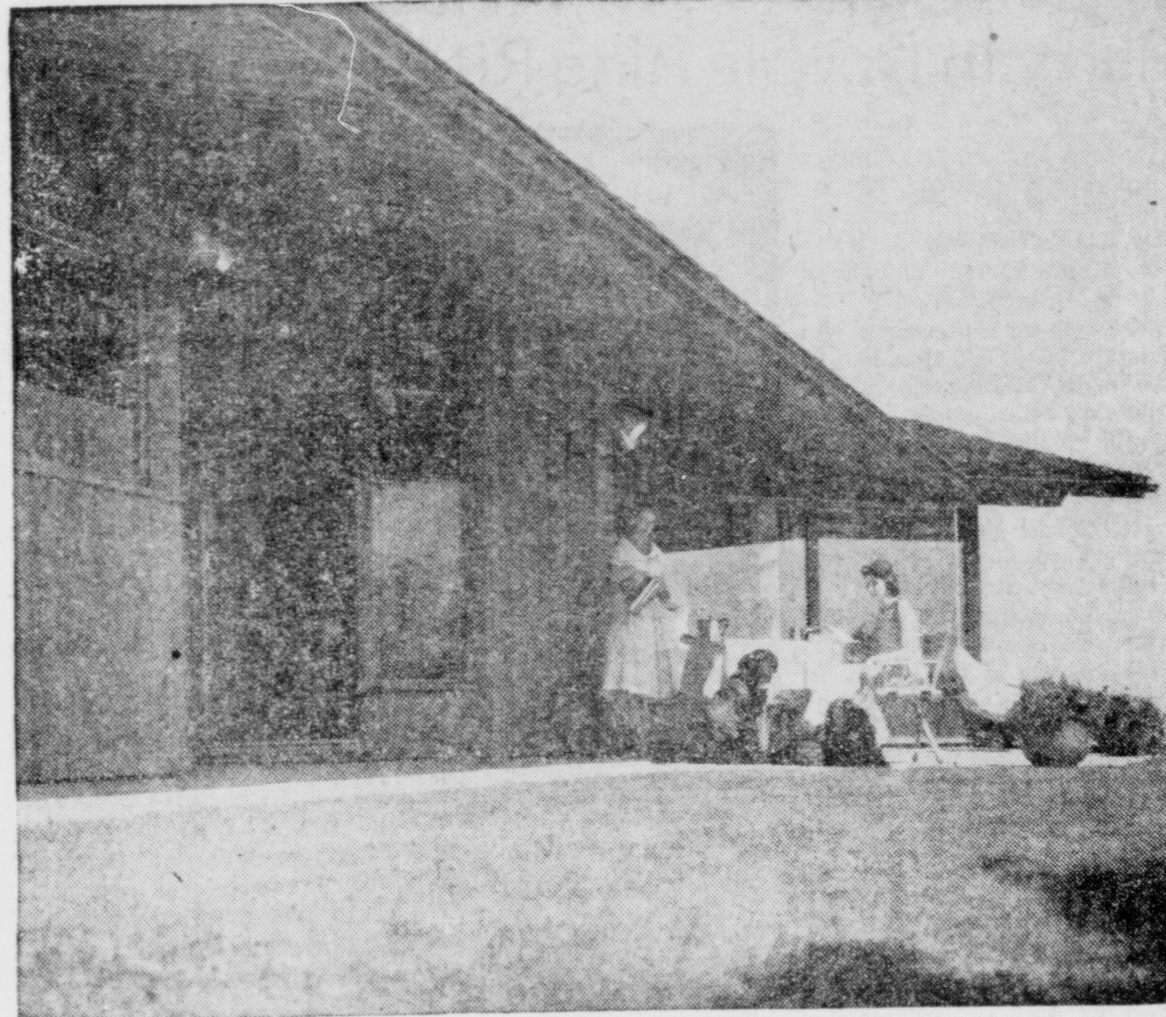

The search was abandoned when the friends turned up at the hospital to visit Rogers. They had been with him earlier, they explained, but had left before the car went into the creek.

Rogers, in a state of shock, apparently thought they still were in the car.

He was reported in fair condition.

Another Chapter Unfolds In Long Anti-Trust Action

CHICAGO (AP) — The government today begins another chapter of its 10-year legal battle to divest E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. of its vast holdings in General Motors Corp.

The current phase of the anti-trust action is to decide the disposition of 63 million shares of GM stock held by Du Pont and two holding companies. The hearings before U.S. Dist. Judge Walter J. Labay are expected to continue at least five weeks.

Government attorneys have asked Judge Labay to order the stock sold on the open market or distributed to individual Du Pont shareholders.

Counsel for Du Pont and GM are seeking a ruling that would permit the big chemical firm to keep its GM stock but pass voting rights to individual Du Pont shareholders.

They contend Du Pont would suffer huge tax losses if the stock were sold and that dumping of the huge number of shares on the open market would bring about a sharp price drop.

Faculty Wage Boosts Urged At State Schools

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — About everyone has been getting salary increases except the faculty members at Ohio's six state universities and they now urgently need a wage hike, a salary study has disclosed.

The report by the Ohio State University chapter of the American Assn. of University Professors said faculty salaries have hardly changed in the period from 1939-1957 while real per capita income in Ohio and the United States has risen 79 per cent.

To increase faculty salaries by one third would raise Ohio's budget by one quarter to one third of one per cent, the study said.

Union Chiefs Get Together

Puerto Rico Scene Of Winter Meeting

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — AFL-CIO leaders gathered today in this Caribbean resort to plan how to combat unemployment back on the mainland and how to capitalize on the favorable political complexion of Congress.

The union chiefs, here for their winter meeting, cheered advance word from Washington that legislation they long have wanted is about to be introduced to raise the $1 an hour minimum wage to $1.25.

Members of the AFL-CIO Executive Council were less communicative on what they may do about a second snub from President Maurice Hatcher of the Carpenters Union to their request to explain his refusal to answer questions of the Senate Labor-Management Committee.

This is the second time Hatcher, a council member, has failed to answer an invitation from the group to personally explain questioned expenditures of his union as well as his indictment in an Indiana land scandal.

The labor leaders were torn between wanting to keep their anti-corruption drive in high gear and the fear that if they admitted a public spanking to Hatcher, he will make good a dare to pull his 850,000-member union out of the AFL-CIO.

George Meany, the AFL-CIO president who is directing the federation's anti-corruption drive, was delayed in arriving from Washington by a cold. But Meany was reported not willing to lose the Carpenters from the AFL-CIO family as happened when the federation ousted the Teamsters Union.

Boosting the amount and coverage of the federal minimum wage has been an AFL-CIO goal. Union leaders said they expected that a bill to be introduced today in the Senate and House would provide the $1.25 hourly minimum and would also extend its protection to nearly nine million persons now exempt.

Hannibal Hearing Set On Approach To Bridge

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A plan discussed with West Virginia many months ago has been drawn from State Highway Department files and made the subject of a Feb. 25 hearing.

It proposes to take Ohio 536, which ends at a "T" intersection with Ohio 7 in Monroe County, run it south along existing Ohio 7 for about a half-mile, then jog it east about 900 feet as an approach to the Hannibal (Ohio-New Martinsville (W. Va.)) toll bridge now under construction.

West Virginia is building the bridge across the Ohio River in an area served by ferry boat. Ohio Highway Department officials say West Virginia will pay for the proposed Ohio 536 bridge approach. The river's high water mark is where Ohio's jurisdiction ends.

The hearing at Hannibal is to sound out public opinion.

A. Let the potatoes stand in hot water for fifteen minutes before baking, and the baking will require but one-half the usual time.

Q. How can I give relief to a tender skin, caused by a mustard plaster?

A. Immediate relief can be given by applying pure olive oil to the affected parts.

New Regime Set For Italy

Segni And Cabinet Sworn Into Office

ROME (AP) — Antonio Segni was sworn in today as head of Italy's government.

His Cabinet was made up entirely of members of his own Christian Democrat party, which has less than a majority in Parliament. Promised right-wing support from Liberals and Monarchists made Segni virtually sure of winning at least his first vote of confidence, probably within a week.

President Giovanni Gronchi swore Segni into office after approving his cabinet lineup.

Segni needed no parliamentary vote of confidence to assume office. But late this week or early next both the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate must approve the Cabinet. Failure to get this would force him to resign.

The 68-year-old leader's Cabinet is limited to Christian Democrats only. The party, although Italy's largest, is 26 votes short of the 299 necessary for a majority in the Chamber of Deputies. It falls four votes short of a Senate majority.

The Liberals, a right-of-center group with 4 seats in the Senate and 17 deputies, have agreed to back the Segni government on the first confidence votes. The new premier is expected to pick up the nine additional necessary deputies from the 23 Monarchists in the chamber.

Amintore Fanfani's left-of-center coalition of Christian Democrats and Democratic Socialists resigned three weeks ago.

Man At Rochester Faces Rape Count

William Bacon, 35, of Rochester, charged with statutory rape, was held for the March term of the Beaver County Grand Jury at a hearing Saturday night before Squire Jimmie Knight of Industry Township in connection with an alleged attack on a 14-year-old Midland girl.

He is in Beaver County Jail. Rape of the girl was allegedly committed in Bacon's car on a road back of Midland in Industry Township sometime near noon Thursday, Industry police said.

According to police, Bacon gave himself up to Midland police Friday when officers were close on his trail. Industry police then took him into custody.

Charges were filed by the girl's mother. Police said Bacon, who was reared in Industry Township, is the father of six children.

Confident Living

How Prayer Can Change The World

A little more than one hundred years ago, on a gloomy morning in 1857, a man by the name of Lanthier, living in New York City, boarded a horse drawn streetcar to go to his office on Fulton St. On the way downtown he read the morning paper—it was probably the New York Tribune, edited

Horace Greeley. The news he read was that the country was in the grip of an economic depression—in those days, it was called a "panic."

Businesses were closing down, one after the other. Wages were down. Thousands of people were walking the streets, out of work. Conditions were profoundly disturbing. Lanthier, along with many others, read these pessimistic and alarming reports and was worried.

NOW, WHO was Lanthier? A great captain of industry? No. A great figure in politics? No. He was only a simple clerk in an office on Fulton St. But there was one important thing about Lanthier; he was a man who believed in prayer. And under the impact of the gloomy news in his morning paper, he got an inspiration. That same day he sent a note to all his business acquaintances, telling them that, beginning the next day, there would be a prayer meeting in a certain office on Fulton St. daily at noon. He hoped that each of them would attend.

For his first prayer meeting, he arranged 20 chairs in a circle. That first day only one chair was filled; its occupant was Lanthier himself. But that did not discourage him. Alone, he prayed that there might be a tremendous change in him and in America. The second day, a few friends joined him. The next day all 20 chairs were filled.

Day after day, those men met and prayed together. Soon, a similar prayer meeting was started on Wall St., then one on William St., then another on Broadway.

The movement spread like wild fire to other parts of the country—Boston, Philadelphia, Denver, the South, the West Coast. Prayer groups sprang up everywhere. Soon there was a great religious revival and with it came a new upsurge in the moral and spiritual life of the people. It was followed by an era of sound prosperity and progress.

IT WAS ONE of the greatest demonstrations of the power of united prayer and faith that this country ever witnessed. And it all began with one man, an everyday clerk, who released the tremendous power of prayer.

Lanthier's achievement was a demonstration of an age-old principle: that you can change your life, that I can change mine and that together we can change the world around us.

Basically, all we need to do is to get hold of prayer. Or, better still, let prayer get hold of us. There is positively no limit to what can happen to you, or to me, or to the world, through the power of prayer in depth—that is, real prayer.

Emerson once wrote, "Great hearts send forth secret forces that draw great events. In other words, you get back what you send out. If you only send a little forth, you get back something little. Send forth great faith and great results will return. Consequently, let us pray in depth, giving our whole selves to prayer, until its power becomes operative. When we really seek it, the tremendous power of prayer can help us cure our perplexing social and personal problems and transform our world."

Youth Shot To Death While Fleeing Police

PITTSBURGH — Police shot and killed a 20-year-old youth Sunday in suburban Wilkinsburg as he attempted to flee on foot following an auto chase that began in Pittsburgh.

A single bullet mortally wounded Richard Green, whose address was given both as Pittsburgh and Jeannette. Only last week he was placed on three years probation on a purse-snatching charge.

Officers said the chase began after Green, riding in an allegedly stolen auto, ran a red light in Pittsburgh. The car struck a utility pole. Green was cornered in a used car lot, but he broke away. Several warning shots were fired before he was hit in the back.

'Most Wanted' Steals Plane And Then A Car

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP)—The hunt for one of the nation's 10 most wanted criminals fanned out from northern Vermont today after the fugitive landed a stolen plane here and fled in a stolen car.

The FBI Sunday night said Frank Lawrence Spreng, 29, of Akron, Ohio, stole the plane in Scranton, Pa., Friday night or early Saturday, and made a crazy landing at Champlain Airport, just outside Burlington.

The single engine Cessna tipped over in the snow and was badly damaged. The FBI said Spreng walked away from the plane, and made his way to Winooski about a mile away.

In Winooski Spreng went to a used car lot and told the owner he was interested in buying a car. The dealer gave him a car to try out and Spreng has not been seen since.

Spreng has been sought since he broke away last April from an Akron jail where he was serving time for armed robbery.

Keep In Trim

Exercise Helps Break Pound Barrier

So you've stopped losing! Many of you make excellent progress up to a certain pound, and then on the same diet, the pointer on the scales refuses to budge. Here is a typical example:

"I have lost pounds on your Hunger Control Diet and I feel like a new person. But I need to reduce at least another 20 pounds. I've stopped losing although I'm still keeping my calories within 1,100 a day. I've really tried. I still weigh 160 pounds and I'm not quite 5 feet 5. So what do I do now?"

Exercise to the rescue! You have lightened the burden of fat, so now is the ideal time to step up exercise. Also it will be easier to walk and to take simple toners. Whip out the tape and take your measurements.

FOR THE NEXT couple of months, mark your progress by the tape measure instead of the scales. Aim to lose inches and to wear a size smaller dress by Easter. This will give you a refreshing change and a whole new outlook. Weight loss is determined by the deficit between the calories burned for energy and the number eaten.

Exercise will step up the calorie burning and the tonic effect will be all to the good. Continue to keep the calories to between 1,000 and 1,100 a day.

Exercise should be both general and specific. On fair days you can get out and walk. Walking lifts your mood and is a wonderful help in pulling out of the doldrums. Those who are a bit rusty should start with a mile, and then gradually increase to two or three miles at a stretch.

Others were Diane E. Moore, daughter of Mrs. Elsie Moore, 216 Wells Ave., Wellsville, and George Buta and Paul R. Miller, both of Salem.

25,000 Real Estate Tax Statements Issued

Approximately 25,000 real estate tax statements for taxes for the first half of 1958 were mailed Friday and Saturday, according to Vincent C. Judge, county treasurer. He said this represented nearly 60,000 parcels.

The statements carry the tax rate and closing date of March 14, Judge said.

Tax statements are mailed as an aid to the collection. Failure of the statement to reach owners gives them no legal defense against penalties, he said.

Pipe Concern Head Predicts Bright Future

American Vitrified Products Co., which operates plants in East Liverpool and Lisbon, is heading for new prosperity, E. L. Miller, president, predicted over the weekend at the company's headquarters in Cleveland as he issued a report on the fiscal year that ended Oct. 31.

Sales rose to $11,713,375 in the last fiscal year, compared with $10,800,656 in the previous 12 months, but net income declined to $529,555 against $652,893, Miller said. The earnings were equivalent to $2.89 a common share as compared with $3.87 a share in the previous year.

Miller commented that a number of factors point to a good year ahead. The high level of home construction will stimulate sales, which also are expected to pick up because of increased industrial activity, he said. Even more important are heavy outlays by states and municipalities for sewer and water lines, scheduled to total $812 million this year.

In addition, clay pipe for drainage will be included in spending for such other large public projects as roads, bridges, airports and flood control, Miller said.

American Vitrified also operates plants at Cleveland, Brazil, South Bend and Crawfordsville, Ind., Detroit, Fenton and Grand Ledge, Mich., Los Angeles, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Chicago and Whitehall, Ill.

Mediator Due; Halt Continues At Ware Plant

A strike which has virtually halted all production at the Homer Laughlin China Co. since Feb. 5 continued today while both management and union officials awaited the arrival of a federal mediator.

Some 1,500 employees remained idle again today, refusing to cross a picket line set up by 12 women in a dispute over the operation of an underglaze stamping machine. A federal mediator reportedly was due to arrive in East Liverpool this morning but both sides claimed they had heard nothing from him.

A company spokesman said: "We are all at sea. We have heard nothing at all about the mediator." An IBOP official also said he knew nothing about the representative of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service being called in. He said it was his understanding that officials of Local 124 asked for the mediator at a special meeting Friday night.

A local spokesman said Saturday the announcement the mediator would enter the dispute today was made at the special meeting, which was called to secure additional aid for the pickets.

The dispute started over a disagreement on whether gold stampers or underglaze decorators should operate the machine. When the picket line was established, other employees refused to cross it. The company contends the strike is in violation of the contract, while the union insists job rights are being violated.

Review Sports Editor

After 168 matches had been run off in a two-day wrestling marathon, a strong Bridgeport High School team emerged with its fourth straight regional championship Saturday at Memorial Auditorium.

The tournament, held here for the first time, received a good response from a crowd of 800 which attended the final session.

Bridgeport managed to overtake Martins Ferry in the finals. The won the nod over Ted Weirzbicki of Bridgeport.

In the 175-pound battle, Keith Sommer of Martins Ferry kept his record unblemished by pinning Joe Williams of Canton McKinley in three minutes.

Canton McKinley's Fran Minnoch, who weighs about 260, made short work of George Toundas in the heavyweight final with a pin in 1:46 of the first period.

Minnoch, who has been beaten only once this year, recorded three straight falls in the regionals.

East Liverpool's other three hopefuls who won quarter-final matches Friday night fell by the wayside in the semi-final round.

Glenn Mays, the 133-pounder, dropped a 7-2 decision to Bella of Bridgeport and Nick Musuraca lost a tough decision to Ackerman of Martins Ferry, 6-5, in the 154-pound bout.

Among the 22 are East Liverpool's Bob Springer, who was the runner-up in the 138-pound class, and Carl Hoppel, the Beaver Local freshman who lost his first match of the season in the finals of the 120-pound division.

Springer gained the finals with a 3-0 decision over Lynn of Barnesville in the semi-finals Saturday afternoon, but bowed in the finals to Weiss of Canton Central, 5-2. He was the Potters' last hope in the tourney.

One of the top bouts of the tourney which kept the crowd on the edge of its seats resulted when Hoppel and Bridgeport's Frank Cunningham clashed in a battle of the undefeated.

CUNNINGHAM entered the finals with a 13-0 record and Hoppel showed 19 straight victories.

The match was even most of the way as Hoppel fought hard to overcome a two-point deficit in the first period. The final result was 6-3.

However, Hoppel may have a chance to avenge this defeat next weekend in Columbus.

In the other championship bouts, John Porter of Bridgeport remained undefeated by decisioning Jerry McDaniel of Martins Ferry, 6-3, in the 103-pound match.

Bridgeport swept the first four matches as Bob Douglas, who also finished undefeated, continued with an 11-3 decision over Silas Carter in the 112-pound bout. Carter was 9-0 before losing to Douglas.

Hehr has not lost in two years and moved through the regionals with ease.

In the 133-pound match, Wayne Sanford of North Canton decisioned Mickey Bella of Bridgeport, 1-0, to claim the title.

It was Sanford who pulled the upset of the day when he beat Bridgeport's Ed Brown in the semi-finals. Brown was rated a heavy favorite to capture the 133-pound title as he was top seeded with an 11-0 record.

Walt Tolarchyk of Bridgeport won his 15th straight of the season by handing Bob Bruney of Martins Ferry a 4-0 setback.

Kentucky Has Home Floor Advantage

Auburn To Risk 30-Game Win Streak At Lexington

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

What happens when college basketball's only major unbeaten team plays a road game against a school that has lost only six of 118 home games in the last 16 years?

The answer comes when Auburn the invincible, plays Kentucky, the mighty, in the Wildcats' lair at Lexington Saturday night.

With the cooperation of much-whipped Tulane tonight, Auburn will take a 30 - game unbeaten string into the showdown of might against Adolph Rupp's precision-coached gang. By way of warming up for it, Kentucky has nailed its last 23 home games dating back to a loss in the Kentucky Invitational to West Virginia Dec. 20, 1957.

Within a week, there ought to be a pretty good indication of how the ball seems to be bouncing for the two big tournaments - the NCAA and the National Invitation - next month.

Auburn, at home against Tulane tonight and at its peak after thrashing LSU in a school record 115-67 turkey-shoot, figures to carry an 11-0 Southeastern Conference slate against Kentucky. If Kentucky hurdles its Wednesday date with Vanderbilt, the 'Cats will be 9-2. With those two losses, Kentucky may wind up no better than third in the SEC behind Auburn and once-beaten Mississippi State.

But because of Auburn's NCAA probation and the custom that prohibits Mississippi universities from competing against teams with Negroes, Kentucky may still get the nod to represent the conference in the NCAA tournament Rupp & Co. bagged for the fourth time last year.

St. Louis is at Bradley tonight in the second part of their home-and-home deal to decide the challenger to Cincinnati in the Missouri Valley Conference. St. Louis, riding a 14-game winning streak with its 16-2 record, took the first one last week but still trails Cincinnati by a game.

Kansas State can clinch at least a tie for the Big Eight title and another NCAA appearance with victories over Oklahoma tonight and over Oklahoma State Saturday afternoon.

On Wednesday, ACC titans North Carolina and North Carolina State have a rematch. The Tar Heels—who won the first duel—as the home club this time. On Saturday, Princeton plays at Dartmouth in the opener of a home-and-home set that will decide the Ivy championship. In the Skyline, front-running Utah takes to the road to try to wrap up its NCAA berth—meeting runner-up Denver Thursday and New Mexico Saturday. And on the Coast, California is on the road against Washington State Friday and Idaho Saturday trying to hold its edge over Washington in the PCC.

A heavy week it is and one that begins with a big Monday with other pairings like: Michigan State at Northwestern, Indiana at Purdue, Mississippi State at Georgia, VMI at West Virginia, Xavier (Ohio) at Western Kentucky, Southern California at Washington, Oklahoma City at Florida State and St. Bonaventure at Providence.

Strength Through Middle Can Put Pittsburgh On Top

By DANNY MURTAUGH
Pittsburgh Pirates

WOODLYN, Pa. (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates are once again relying on the old baseball axiom, "strength through the middle," to put them back in the first division.

Personally, I think we compare very favorably with the other clubs in our league down the middle. That is, catching, pitching, second, short and center field.

Smoky Burgess, Hank Foiles and Danny Kravitz will do the job behind the bat. I'll get the pitching after a bit. It is around second base that I'm most delighted. Our club is very strong there.

In Bill Mazeroski, our second baseman, I feel we have one of the coming greats in baseball. This boy is only 22 years old and has already played three years in the majors. Last season he set a club record of 19 home runs by a second baseman. I've been in baseball 20 years and have never seen a pivot man his equal.

Dick Groat, our shortstop, is one of the most under-rated players in our league. Every good team must have a capable leader and Groat fits that capacity.

We have a very fine defensive center fielder named Billy Virdon.

I think that our true strength will lie in our pitching staff.

In Bob Friend we have one of the top right-handers in the league—a 22-game winner last year.

Ronnie Kline was our tough luck pitcher in 1958. I feel that if we give Kline the same batting support that we gave several of our other pitchers last season, he can become a 20-game winner.

We also have Harvey Haddix, a fine pitcher whom he obtained in the recent trade with Cincinnati, along with Burgess and third baseman Don Hoak in the Frank Thomas transaction.

Then there is Vernon Law, who won 14 games for us last year, and Elroy Face, a very fine relief pitcher. We have two excellent young right-handers, George Witt and Curt Raydon, coming back.

Last year they won 18 games between them although neither was with us a full year.

We gave up a very fine power hitter in Thomas but I feel Burgess, with his big bat, and Hoak, with his great all-around ability, will offset Frank's loss.

Bob Skinner, our left fielder, drove in 70 runs last year and hit 12 home runs. Of the 70, most came after he was placed in the cleanup spot, and that's where he'll be this year. The other RBI man is Dick Stuart, the rookie first baseman. If the boy can live up to his potential, he can be one of the most powerful sluggers in the league. He hit 15 homers and close to 50 RBIs in half a season in 1958.

Spartans Can Wrap Up Title

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Hold on their son, don't concede Michigan State that Big Ten basketball title just yet. Better wait a week.

In this short span of time, Michigan State tangles with three of the toughest teams in the conference. And two of the games find the Spartans on the road where they have yet to beat a first division club.

MSU takes its gilded 7-2 record to Northwestern (4-5) tonight. Saturday, the Spartans take on Purdue in East Lansing where they have not lost this year. But next Monday night, they journey to Indiana where they face the unpredictable Hoosiers in what could be a title showdown.

Indiana (6-3), one game behind Michigan State, will be at Purdue (5-4) tonight. The thought of playing on the road doesn't frighten the Hoosiers.

Indiana has lost only one conference game on the road and that was an opening 79-77 defeat at Michigan State.

Both of the Spartan losses have been away from home and to first division teams—Iowa and Purdue.

Aside from the MSU — Northwestern and Indiana - Purdue games tonight, Michigan (4-4) invades Iowa (5-4) and Wisconsin (1-6) is at Illinois (4-5).

Michigan State, Indiana, Purdue and Iowa held first division berths by winning Saturday.

The Spartans trimmed Michigan 103-91; Indiana clipped Minnesota 62-57; Iowa put Wisconsin deeper into the cellar 94 - 84; and Purdue defeated Northwestern 65-63.

All ten teams will be in action Saturday. Indiana will be at Illinois; Ohio State at Iowa; Michigan at Northwestern; Purdue at Michigan State and Minnesota at Wisconsin in a regionally televised matinee.

Boyce Methodist and First United Presbyterian each registered their sixth straight victories in the Inter-Collegiate division of the YMCA-Church League and Chester First Methodist and St. Stephen's followed the same pattern in the Collegiate division Saturday night on the 'Y' floor.

Boyce Methodist rolled to an easy 37-10 victory over Central Methodist as Willison tallied 16 points. Baughman had six for Wellsville.

First United Presbyterian scored a lopsided 50-6 win over First Presbyterian. The scoring was balanced for the winners. Dave Oliver and Brady Clutter led the way with 12 each. Locke had four for the losers.

U.S. Victory May Revive Bobsledding

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland (AP) — Art Tyler, 43-year-old Weston, Mass., physicist, has given the United States its first world four-man bobsled title in six years.

And with it came the renewed hope that the 1960 Winter Olympics may again include bobsled competition.

Tyler, who didn't take up the sport until he was 35, conquered the tricky and treacherous mile-long chute and the world's best bobsleers Sunday as he posted a total time of 5 minutes, 10.82 seconds for four runs.

Tyler's time, including a record run of 1:17.42 in Saturday's second heat, gave the American sled a margin of 35 hundredths of a second over the second place Italian sled, piloted by Sergio Zardini. The Italians were clocked in 5:11.17.

International bobsled officials figure the American victory will arouse new interest in the sport in the United States and thus may help swing the International Olympic Committee toward permitting a separate Olympic bobsled event at Lake Placid, N. Y., in 1960.

However, Tyler is not likely to represent the United States in 1960. He told newsmen after his victory that he had decided to quit racing because of his wife's request after seeing several accidents in warm-up races.

Tyler's triumph was the seventh American four-man title since the world championships were first held in 1924. The last American to win was Lloyd Johnson of Madison, Wis., at Garmisch in 1933.

Littler Wins Tucson Open With Great Approach Shot

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — A 250-yard approach that stopped eight feet from the 18th pin clinched the $15,000 Tucson Open and his second tournament in a row for Gene Littler Sunday.

It didn't matter that his putt for an eagle stopped an inch short. Littler tapped in a birdie and won $2,000.

"That wood shot was the key to the tourney," he grinned.

The San Diego, Calif., pro trailed rookie Joe Campbell by six strokes and Art Wall Jr. by three going into the final round.

Both leaders faltered, soaring over par. Littler took the lead with a 20-foot putt from the apron of the 18th green for a birdie. Going into the 550-yard 18th, he led by a stroke.

The tournament was over when Littler's second shot was pin high. Wall birdied the hole for the fourth time. Campbell needed a 40-foot putt for an eagle and a tie. He missed by a foot but got a birdie.

Littler's 14-under-par 65-67-68-66 — 266 was two strokes better than his winning total at Phoenix the week before.

Campbell and Wall tied with 267s. Campbell's 65-64-65-73 was good for $1,350. So was Wall's 66-64-67-70.

Wall remains the big money winner of the tour with $14,950. Littler moved into second place with $7,083.

Master's champion Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa., Bill Johnston, Provo, Utah and Doug Sanders, Miami Beach, Fla. closed with sub-par rounds and 12-under-par 268s. That earned them $900 each.

'I'll Set Record On Saturday,' High-Jumping Star Predicts

NEW YORK (AP)—John Thomas, as calmly predicted today he will high jump 7 feet, 1 1/4 inches in the National AAU Indoor Track and Field Championships Saturday.

No one in history ever has propelled himself that high—indoors or outdoors.

The world outdoor record is 7-1 1/2 by the Soviet Union's Yuri (Elevator Shoe) Stepanov.

The amazing 17-year-old Boston University freshman cleared an even 7-feet for the second time in three weeks in the New York Athletic Club Games in Madison Square Garden last Saturday and just did miss at 7-1 1/4.

"But I think I'll do it at the AAU championships," said the 6-4 1/2 Thomas. "I was disappointed that I didn't do it in the New York A.C. meet. I don't know what happened to me."

After clearing 7 feet (he's still the only man alive to make the height indoors) Thomas tried for 7-1 1/4. He missed all three tries, but barely touched the crossbar on the second effort.

"I feel a lot better now that I've done 7 feet twice," he observed. "I don't feel so nervous about it."

Trooper Knows Roads

—And Can Prove It

OXFORD, Conn. (AP) — State Trooper Stanley Sobieski knows his roads and can prove it.

While chasing a stockcar driver at high speeds over some back roads, Sobieski suddenly stopped, turned around and headed in the other direction.

He turned down a side road and took a short cut to a highway.

There he came out on the road in front of the speeding car. The driver, George Rzesutek, 24, was booked for driving while his license was under suspension and driving an unregistered car.

Officers Seated

By Sports Group

New officers were seated and three new members received at a meeting of the Wellsview American Legion Post 70 Curbside Coaches Association Friday night at the post home.

William Powell is the new president. D. J. Henthorn was named co-ordinator to work with Wellsview coaches to determine if the club can help the teams in any way.

New members received were Robert Hagan, sales manager; George Diab, sports director, and Dave DeProspero, publicity director, all of television station WTRF at Wheeling.

An honorary card was sent Red Donnelly, sports director of WSTV. Invitations will be sent to other sports directors in the area.

Francis House, secretary-treasurer, gave a report.

A spaghetti dinner was served. The next meeting will be Friday following the East Liverpool-Wellsview game.

Accord Appears Near

In Plate Glass Dispute

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The president of the United Glass and Ceramic Workers Union said today that he is "more than hopeful" that the union membership will ratify a proposal to end a 134-day strike against the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co.

Ralph Reiser said he is pleased with the reaction to a personal appeal he made Sunday to members of Local 12 at nearby Crighton, Pa., for acceptance of a tentative contract agreement. Reiser predicted the offer will be ratified by a "minimum 2 to 1 margin" at Crighton and another Pittsburgh Plate plant in Ford City, Pa.

Secret balloting on a memorandum of agreement reached last Wednesday in Philadelphia will be conducted today by seven union locals in nine plants employing some 13,000 workers. Reiser said he expects complete results by early morning.

Reiser dismissed the union negotiating committee last week to work out the agreement with the company and end prolonged negotiations.

An adverse vote at any one of the locals would kill the proposal.

India Will Take Steps

To Check Population

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru's government plans to provide facilities in medical health centers for human sterilization as a way of checking India's alarming population growth.

Health Minister D. P. Karmarkar told a meeting of the Central Family Planning Board Sunday that sterilization operations would be available to all desiring to restrict the size of their families.

Five New York state residents are playing this season with Dartmouth's basketball team.

As Ohio Legislators Return

Showdown Due On FEP

By REED SMITH
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A showdown vote on fair employment practices (FEP) tops the calendar for Ohio legislators returning tonight from weekend adjournment.

The House convenes at 7:30 p.m.; the Senate a half hour later.

Majority Leader Frank W. King (D-Lucas) said the Senate will vote Wednesday on a Democratic policy bill to prevent racial discrimination in employment. Similar proposals have failed in recent GOP-controlled sessions.

But Democrats predicted passage this session of a bill endorsed in principle by Gov. Michael V. DiSalle. It would create a State Civil Rights Commission composed of five members paid $5,000 annually and a $12,000 a year executive director. Commission decisions would be enforced through the courts.

House Democrats will carry on the supplemental unemployment benefits (SUB) fight, passed along to them by the Senate.

The Senate-approved measure to allow simultaneous payment of the governor for a get-tough policy towards nursing home operators.

The committee Wednesday will conduct a second hearing on a bill proposing to place rest homes under the state health director.

The House Conservation Committee called for a third hearing Tuesday on a proposal for a season to shoot quail, now protected from hunters.

A proposal for a $1.25 an hour minimum wage law will get another hearing by the House Industry and Labor Committee Wednesday night.

Senate committees Tuesday will hear bills permitting voting machine polls to stay open until 8 p.m. on election night, banning horse racing on Good Friday, removing the $65 monthly ceiling on old age pensions and doubling city's share of court fines for law libraries.

Hearings Wednesday will consider bills to take the sales tax off restaurant meals and prescription drugs and a resolution memorializing Congress against an increase in federal gasoline taxes.

DiSalle said his messages will deal with public health and with law and order, the latter containing "something special."

Wednesday's Senate session opens at 4 p.m., two hours later than usual, so members can attend a meeting at the state fairgrounds called by DiSalle.

The governor has invited representatives of business, labor, government and civic organizations to give their views on creation of a new State Department of Economic and Industrial Development. About 1,000 are expected.

A hearing by the House Public Welfare Committee took on added significance with a call by

Millage Slash Set In 4 Areas

Beaver Office Mails Assessment Notices

BEAVER — Robert Zapsic, chief assessor for Beaver County's new tax program, announced today the millage reductions for four townships whose property owners were mailed notices of change of assessment Friday.

In Greene, the new assessment is $960,100. The old assessment was $620,792. Millage for the school district will be reduced from 35 to 25 mills and the township road tax will be cut from 7 to 5 mills.

In Hanover, the new assessment is $1,076,400 against the old assessment of $541,974. School taxes were cut from 40 to 22 mills and township tax was cut from 6 to 3 mills.

In Racoon, the new assessment is $1,365,140. The old assessment was $538,299. School taxes were reduced from 35 to 15 mills and township taxes from 11 to 4 1/2 mills.

In Independence, the new assessment is $845,900 and the old assessment was $469,835. School taxes were cut from 35 to 21 mills and township taxes from 11 to 6 1/2 mills.

Zapsic said the notices are the last to go to 60,000 property owners in Beaver County.

Assessing Ordinances Awaited On 2 Projects

Ordinances officially levying special assessments against property-owners for a sanitary sewer project in Klondyke and a street improvement in the Oakland area are scheduled for presentation to Council tonight.

The legislation will fix the charges for installation of a sanitary sewer on the south side of Harvey Ave. from Bushwick St. to a point 538 feet east, the north side of Harvey from Bushwick to a point 350 feet east and the north side of Hazel Alley from Bushwick St. to a point opposite Lot No. 6782.

The street improvement covered grading, draining and paving Walters St. from Pennsylvania Ave. to Globe St. Enactment of the legislation will make the assessments for the jobs payable in cash or in annual installments—plus interest—on the tax duplicate. Both jobs were completed a year ago.

Wool Marketing Year Will End On March 31

BEAVER — G. M. Swick, chairman of the Beaver County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, today reminded farmers that the marketing year under the 1958 wool program will end March 31.

The wool program is conducted under the National Wool Act of 1954. Payments for the 1958 program must be filed with the ASC office not later than April 30.

In addition to ship rescue readiness, the U. S. Coast Guard also operates lighthouses, buoys, loran stations and ice breakers to keep sea lanes safe for navigation.

terminated on the basis of national average prices received by producers for shorn wool during the 1958 marketing year. Any marketing after March 31 will be eligible under the 1959 program.

Applications for payment under the 1958 program must be filed with the ASC office not later than April 30.

Warren Driver Hurt In Salem Area Crash

A Warren driver whose car smashed into another on Route 62 near Salem early Sunday morning is in "fair" condition at Salem Central Clinic.

Aurelius R. Stommun, 48, of Warren suffered skull injuries and cuts and abrasions when his car rammed an oncoming auto operated by William Garrett, 21, of Massillon about a mile west of Salem at 1:50 a. m. yesterday, the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon said.

Stommun was attempting to pass other cars when the mishap occurred, the patrol said. He faces a charge of driving left of center.

Webb Goodchild, 74, of Salem suffered facial cuts and abrasions when he lost control of his car on Route 344 near Leetonia yesterday and it hit a tree. He was charged with reckless operation after treatment at Salem City Hospital.
